

The Catesby Family and their Brasses at Ashby St Ledgers

by Members of the Monumental Brass Society and Others

edited by Jerome Bertram

The latest in the M.B.S.'s series of occasional publications arose from the Society's Study Day held in May 2003 at Ashby St Ledgers, Northamptonshire, at which leading authorities in the field presented important new research on the church, the Catesby family and brasses to family members spanning the period 1404 to 1553. Most of the brasses are now in imperfect condition, but details of lost components are recorded in 17th and 18th century antiquarian notes transcribed in full in the volume. Two brasses currently in the Northamptonshire Record Office were newly identified as coming from Ashby, and as a result of this research are to be restored to the church. All known brasses from Ashby are studied in the volume and an overview given of their significance. In addition, information is provided on an important lost heraldic glazing scheme which once graced the church. The whole is set in context by an essay on the family, incorporating information from hitherto unpublished sources. The volume is copiously illustrated in colour.

The volume, to be published in Spring 2006, will be available at a pre-publication price of £10.00 (plus £5.00 postage and packing).

All names and addresses of subscribers will be printed in the volume if remittances and details are received prior to 31st March 2006.

The publication price will be £20.00 (plus £5.00 postage and packing).

To: Monumental Brass Society
Lowe Hill House, Stratford St. Mary, Suffolk CO7 6JX
(email: martinstuchfield@btconnect.com)

Please send mecopy/copies of The Catesby Family and their Brasses at Ashby St Ledgers at £10.00/£20.00 (plus £5.00 postage and packing).

Please make cheques payable to the 'Monumental Brass Society'.

Name.....

Address.....

.....

.....

Email/Telephone.....

Subscribers' names and addresses can only be printed in the book if this form is received together with payment prior to 31st March 2006.